THE

FRANK & JOE SHOW

66 2 3

"Frank & Joe know more standards than a bus load of Shriners." The New Yorker

The FRANK & JOE SHOW is led by virtuoso guitarist Frank Vignola and master percussionist Joe Ascione. They are ably complemented by a merry band including rhythm guitar, bass guitar and two back-up percussionists, making a great sextet. Based in New York City, The FRANK & JOE SHOW holds court on Sundays at Sweet Rhythm in Greenwich Village.

"Hear us now,
believe us later:

Frank Vignola is one of the finest guitarists in jazz and drummer Joe Ascione is an all-around swingin'
machine."

The Boston Phoenix

The FRANK & JOE SHOW is an irresistible melting pot of musical dialects so seamless that they create their own musical language. There's gypsy swing crossed with breezy island grooves; the American high lonesome sound infused with modern jazz; classic pop standards filtered through acoustic roots improvisation---all the while propelled by delectable rhythms.

The songbook stretches from Cole Porter to The Doobie Brothers and from Louis Armstrong to Mozart.

"The music was, not surprisingly, magnificent. Vignola is a world-class guitarist, whose dexterous playing is as thoughtful and inventive as it is fleet. Ascione played only a congalike African drum and a cymbal, but he made it sound like a whole drum kit."

The Times Union, Albany, NY

The FRANK & JOE SHOW records for Hyena Records, having released two albums, "33 1/3" and "66 2/3." Speaking of "33 1/3," The Philadelphia Inquirer said "This recording knocks you out from the first track."

"Vignola and Ascione make time fly backward." The Washington Post
